Gentlemen:-

Having carefully revised the detail drawings of the carving for the State Bldg doors, we find they are very much more elaborate than those drawn on the blue prints, which were first submitted, and upon which our estimate was based.

The carver says he cannot execute the work for the same price as he is willing to do the original for, and estimates that in order to carry out the new designs he will require $175.00 extra. Personally I don't wish to make a penny on the carving as I used his figure in the first instance, but I cannot afford to stand the difference in price. Will you kindly take this matter up with the State Commission and ascertain if they are willing to allow the difference, for which they will certainly be amply repaid by having a much more beautiful door. I remain,

Yours truly,

J. T. Weldon.
